1. If a Company holds an equity investment with a readily available fair market value and which qualifies as an “available for sale security”. Your instructor is kind enough to remind you that available for sale securities are carried on the balance sheet at their fair value:

a. Which financial statement would unrealized appreciation/depreciation be reported in (income statement or equity statement)?
b. Unrealized appreciation or depreciation would appear as a component of what on the income statement or equity statement (answer depends on your answer to (a) above)?
c. Do you wish Bob would have just gone to sleep instead of writing this assignment?

2. For each set of facts below, indicate which treatment is appropriate (i.e. Equity, Consolidated, or Cost)

a. XYZ owns 75% of the outstanding stock of Investee, Inc. XYZ’s ownership grants them control of the entity.
b. XYZ owns 10% of the outstanding stock of Investee, Inc. XYZ’s ownership does not grant them control nor significant influence.
c. XYZ owns 40% of the outstanding stock of Investee, Inc. XYZ’s ownership grants them significant influence, but not control.
d. XYZ owns 40% of Joint Venture, LLC and is the Managing Member. XYZ controls 3 of 5 total votes required for all major decisions of Joint Venture, LLC and majority vote is required for all major decisions.

3. We own a debt security which we paid $10,000 for during the year and have not recorded anything since we made the investment. The entry at the date of investment was:

   Investment $10,000
   Cash $10,000

   We are closing our books at the end of the year when the market value of the investment is $12,000. Provide the required closing adjustment required assuming the investment is properly classified as (note: be sure to designate any unrealized holding gains as equity or income statement):

   a. Held to Maturity
   b. Available for Sale
   c. Trading